

	Sizzling--A	Pretty Toasty--B	Lukewarm--C	Cold Fish--D	F
Interview	Person chosen is appropriate Questions asked are thoughtful, open-ended, and connect to the guiding question (What does it mean to be American?)	Questions asked are mostly thoughtful and open-ended, and mostly connect to the guiding question.	Questions asked are sometimes thoughtful, open-ended, and connect to the guiding question; basic and doesn't include much detail.	Questions are occasionally thoughtful, but don't always connect to the guiding question; mostly complete, but is missing important details or parts.	No Interview completed
Analysis	I wrote an in depth, interesting summary and included a lot of details about my person. I included my own interpretation of what my person said. I have three paragraphs.	I wrote a summary that included some details about my person. I included a small interpretation of what my person said. I have two paragraphs.	I wrote part of a summary. I don't include my own interpretation of what the person said. I have one paragraph.	I only wrote a few sentences.	No Analysis
Visual	Photo is thoughtfully taken. I considered how to tell the story of my person. The photo includes extra elements (lights, props, location, background, etc.).	Photo is somewhat thoughtfully taken. The photo includes some extra elements.	Photo is somewhat thoughtfully taken.	Photo is not thoughtfully taken.	Visual not created
Reflection Essay	Writing that: -clearly and completely answers the prompt. -contains at least 3 examples to support the central idea (concrete detail and elaboration). -analyzes examples to show how they support the central idea. -consists of complete sentences, with no run-ons or fragments. -avoids repetition and uses clear, interesting, and academic vocabulary.	Writing that: -clearly answers at least part of the central question. -contains some examples to support the central idea, but there is little detail or elaboration. -has some analysis of examples but this analysis is not consistent. -may have run-on or fragmented sentences.	Writing that: -may attempt to but does not clearly answer the central question. -contains few or no examples to support the central idea -has little to no analysis to connect the examples to the central idea	Writing that: -does not clearly answer the central question. -contains no examples to support the central idea -has no analysis to connect the examples to the central idea	Student fails to write an essay or does not show reflection in their writing.

Overall Grade: B+